ECOWARRIORS
INITIATIVE UGANDA

QUARTERLY PROGRESS REPORT

AUGUST – OCTOBER 2026

From awareness to action — working with communities to build practical, lasting solutions.

FOOD SECURITY • MENSTRUAL HEALTH • COMMUNITY ACTION

A report for our partners, funders, donors and community supporters

ecowarriorsintiative.org | @ecowarriors256 | ecowarriors256@gmail.com

01 | At a glance

Between August and October 2026, Eco Warriors focused on building practical capacity and turning partnerships into community-level action. Our work brought together agricultural training in Namizi and fundraising collaboration for the Kick Out Period Poverty campaign. We are grateful to the partners, farmers, members and supporters who helped move this work forward.

3	30	17	UGX 356,535
Members completed Farming God's Way	Farmers trained in Namizi	Women farmers participated	Raised for Kick Out Period Poverty

The quarter also saw an MOU signed with Hangout Jinja for Farming God's Way capacity-building, a training collaboration involving Sow Hope Farms, and an online partnership discussion with Days for Girls Tokyo, Japan.

02 | What we did

Building skills for sustainable agriculture

August — Partnership with Hangout Jinja. Eco Warriors signed an MOU with Hangout Jinja to support the training of four members in Farming God's Way. The four-day training was planned in partnership with Sow Hope Farms. The partnership aimed to build practical agricultural knowledge within our team, so members could share what they learned with farmers.

September — Team members trained. Three members — Kirunda Nouhman, Mugabo Moses and Mwesigwa Abraham — attended and completed the Farming God's Way training. Their participation strengthened Eco Warriors' ability to support farmer learning at community level.

October — Farmer training in Namizi. Our trained members facilitated a three-day Farming God's Way training for 30 farmers in Namizi: 17 women and 13 men. This was an important step in sharing practical knowledge beyond our organisation and into the community.

Community farmer training in Namizi.

Working together to address period poverty

August — Partnership discussion. We held an online meeting with May from Days for Girls Tokyo, Japan, to discuss possible collaboration under our Kick Out Period Poverty campaign. The discussion focused on mobilising materials for training women to make reusable sanitary pads and developing illustrated pamphlets on menstrual hygiene and health.

October — Resource mobilisation. Eco Warriors collaborated with Days for Girls Tokyo in fundraising and mobilised UGX 356,535 towards the Kick Out Period Poverty campaign. This figure is reported as funds raised, not as expenditure.

International partnership and resource mobilisation for Kick Out Period Poverty.

03 | Results and participation

The table summarises the main measurable results reported for this period. The MOU initially provided for four members to be trained; the attendance details supplied for this report confirm that three members completed the training.

Area	Reported result
Agricultural partnership	MOU signed with Hangout Jinja, with training collaboration involving Sow Hope Farms.
Internal capacity	3 members completed Farming God's Way training.
Community reach	30 farmers trained in Namizi over 3 days — 17 women and 13 men.
Menstrual health partnership	Online engagement with Days for Girls Tokyo to explore campaign collaboration.
Resource mobilisation	UGX 356,535 raised towards Kick Out Period Poverty.

04 | Challenges and what we are learning

We made progress, but the work also brought practical challenges. We are sharing these openly because they affect how activities are planned and delivered.

Limited funding. Inadequate funds make it difficult to fully facilitate activities, including transport, training materials, mobilisation and follow-up.

Farmer availability. Some farmers were not always available during training activities. This affects attendance and makes it harder to bring everyone together at the same time.

Limited trained personnel. Our pool of trained people is still small. More trained facilitators would help us reach additional communities and provide consistent follow-up.

What we are taking forward: We need to plan farmer sessions around community availability, continue building our pool of facilitators and mobilise resources for both training and follow-up.

Capacity-building in Farming God's Way.

05 | Upcoming activities

Date	Planned activity	Purpose
28 November 2026	Budondo Health Centre clean-up	Engage young people in community cleanliness and public health.
December 2026 holiday	Football for Climate Change	Use sport to engage young people in climate awareness and action.
17–19 December 2026	Rural Content Creation Academy — Cohort 2026	Build practical rural content creation skills and community storytelling.

06 | Photo highlights

The photographs below were supplied with the activity information and are included as a visual record of the work described in this report.

Farming God's Way capacity-building.

Strengthening partnerships for sustainable agriculture.

07 | Priorities for the next period

In the coming months, our focus is to build on what has started and make the work more consistent. Our priorities are to:

• Continue engaging farmers, listening to their needs and expanding practical agricultural training.

• Train and support more Eco Warriors members and volunteers to facilitate farmer learning.

• Follow through on the Days for Girls Tokyo engagement and prepare for the planned reusable-pad skills training and menstrual health materials.

• Improve activity mobilisation and scheduling so community members can participate more reliably.

• Build partnerships and mobilise resources for programme delivery, materials and follow-up.

08 | Appreciation

We thank Hangout Jinja and Sow Hope Farms for supporting the agricultural capacity-building process, and Days for Girls Tokyo — especially May — for taking time to explore collaboration with us on menstrual health. We are also grateful to the farmers in Namizi who gave their time to learn, the Eco Warriors members who facilitated the activities, and every volunteer and supporter who continues to stand with our work.

A note to our funders and donors

Your support helps local teams turn ideas into practical action. The progress in this report is a starting point, and we know there is more to do. We welcome continued partnership, technical support and resources to help us reach more farmers, strengthen women's skills and create more opportunities for young people to contribute to their communities.

> “We listen to communities, work alongside them and support solutions they can carry forward.”

ECOWARRIORS INITIATIVE UGANDA

Website: https://ecowarriorsintiative.org/
Instagram: @ecowarriors256
Email: ecowarriors256@gmail.com

Reporting note: This report reflects the activity information supplied by Eco Warriors Initiative. UGX 356,535 is recorded as funds raised; expenditure and balance details were not provided and are therefore not stated.